SAUNDARYALAHARI OF SRISANKARA - A STUDY
Dr.N.Seetha

This is the Ph.D. thesis of Dr.Seetha published in book form. The study commences with an introduction giving a short account of the stotra literature of Sanskrit with special reference to Saundaryalahari. Chapters are assigned to the contents of the work, its poetic beauty, Saundaryalahari as an epitome of Saktism, philosophical aspects of Saundaryalahari, modes of worship practiced in it and a comparative study with other works so as to see how far Sankara was influenced by his preceptor Gaudapada and how far later poets were influenced by Sankara.

SVATMAYOGAPRADIPAPRABODHINI - AN EDITION AND STUDY
Author : Dr. P. Chithambaran

Foreword by Dr.T.Devarajan

The book has two parts, one being the study of the work and the other, a critical edition of the work. The merit of the treatise is that it reviews the most comprehensive ideas of a vast subject, the Advaita Vedanta in an accurate, well-arranged and readable manner. The author substantiates his views by quoting Upanisads and other scriptures. Another importance of this work is that it was written at a time when the Advaita Vedanta was facing a setback at the hands of the Dvaitins and Visistadvaitins. For the above reasons, the present work of Amarananda has an important place among the Prakarana treatises of Advaita Vedanta.

ISLAM

Muslim understanding of other religions:

a study of Ibn Hazm's Kitab al-Fasl fi al-Milal wa al-Ahwa wa al-Nihal .

Author: Ghulam Haider Aasi

Muslim understanding of other religions is a scholarly piece of work. It is a study of Ibn Hazm's Kitab al-Fasl fi al-Milal wa al-Ahwa wa al-Nihal, translated by Ghulam Haider Aasi. Most scholarly works tend to interest a very select few; this one, however, despite its numerous references and academic approach, is within the grasp of the common educated lot. It makes for interesting reading, if for no reason other than that it provides an insight into the mind of a very learned man.

Ibn Hazm is perhaps the first scholar to undertake a study of comparative religion. He was enthusiastic about refuting the doctrines of other religions, especially Christianity and Judaism. His knowledge pertaining to these religions was extensive, deep and penetrating, and his perceptions sharp and brilliant. Convinced that the truth was one and so was true religion, Ibn Hazm was determined to see that unity is established as the ultimate criterion of religious diversity.

With his usual logical vigour, he first sought to demonstrate the Existence, Oneness, and Transcendence of God on the basis of reason, common sense perception, and intuition, with a view to establishing this fact as the first principle of all religions. He argues for the reality and necessity of revelation and the ability of the prophets to provide mankind with the knowledge, guidance, and principles of religio-moral laws in order for felicity in this world and the Hereafter to be achieved.

He is the first Muslim scholar who takes the Qur'anic charge of tahrif (distortion) against the followers of earlier revealed scriptures, especially, the Bible (both Hebrew and Christian), in its most extreme and literal sense.

Inculturation
Author : Julian Saldanha

The author explains the meaning of this concept and its theological bases. The chequered course of inculturation is traced all through the Bible and mission history. What inculturation has meant in the post-Vatican II era, especially for India, is exposed in Part II, with reference to liturgy, art, theology, ecclesiastical studies and social belonging.

SIKHISM

Sikh Art and Literature
Author : Kerry Brown

Sikh Art and Literature traverses the 500-year history of a religion that dawned with the modern age in a land that was a thoroughfare of invading armies, ideas and religions and arts of the East and West. Essays by art curators, historians and collectors and religion and literary scholars are illustrated with some of the earliest and finest Sikh paintings. Sikh modernism and mysticism is explored in essays on the holy Guru Granth Sahib; the translations and writings of the British Raj convert, M.A. Macauliffe; the fathers of modern Punjabi literature, Bhai Vir Singh and Puran Singh; and the 20th century fiction writers Bhai Mohan Vaid Singh and Khushwant Singh. Excerpts from journals of visitors to the court of the diminutive and new translations of early twentieth century poetry add depth and originality to this beautiful and accessible introduction to the art, literature, beliefs and history of the Sikhs. Sikh Art and Literature is a colourful, heartfelt, and informative introduction to the Sikh culture.

Trübner's Oriental Series was set up by Kegan Paul Trench & Trübner in 1890. It was undoubtedly the most important English language series in Asian Studies of the period, publishing works between 1890 and 1930. The books in the series reflected the scholarly interests of the time, and covered an enormous variety of topics pertaining to Asia, Africa and the Middle East.

This set provides a fantastic historical source on the early study of Asian, African and Middle Eastern Studies, and will prove an essential addition to your collection.

Subjects covered include:

Language and literatures
Religion and philosophy
History and economics
Natural history, to name a few

The volumes are available as an entire set, as individual volumes and also as mini-sets.

Mini-sets

- A. Africa
- B. Ancient Near East
- C. Arabic History and Culture
- D. Buddhism

This set brings together a broad spectrum of research and translations from Chinese, Burmese, Tibetan and Pali Buddhist sources. It includes collected folklore and early studies on the life of the Buddha; Dutt's prize-winning investigation of Buddhist monks in ancient India; Beal's insightful travel-log offering a valuable sourcebook of ancient Indian history; Edkin's important early work detailing the history of Buddhism and its spread through China; and Bigandet's modestly titled text providing a complete exposition of the great system of Eastern Asia.
