Poisonous Plants of Pakistan / S. H. Abid Askari

Karachi: Oxford University Press, 2010

xv. 512p. ; 29cm.

ISBN-13: 9780195977899 (HB)

$ 195.00

It is known scientific fact that toxic or poisonous substances including plant extracts have therapeutic potential at lower dose levels. There is therefore a tremendous interest in poisonous plants worldwide. Abid Askari's endeavour in compiling a reliable database on some of the most poisonous plants of Pakistan, is a step in the right direction. This valuable information base can be of great help in using these wonderful treasures of nature for the benefit of people, in a sustainable manner.

Jumping to Reach Clear Sky: Frontline Narratives of China's Green Dream / Fu Jing
Beijing: New World Press, 2011

vi. ; 207p. ; 24cm.

ISBN-13: 9787510414138

$ 22.50

China has made its due contribution to fighting against climate change. The author of this book – as a journalist witnessing the efforts Chinese leaders, such as Premier Wen Jiabao, had delivered at Copenhagen to save the world from a “no-deal” scenario – could not help but include in the collection the true stories of what happened last November and December ahead of another round of negotiation in Cancun. This is also the starting point for the conceptualization of this book. Climate change is not merely a political negotiation affair. For many Chinese, especially those in ecologically fragile regions, it's a life-or-death issue. The stories of those climate witnesses are also the shining parts of this collection.
