1. Architecture

This is the third monograph published by Architects 49 and 49Group. Some of the outcomes are represented here in this publication in four parts: Sense: reflecting how one can experience the different senses in architecture. This is to convey how people's perception towards a particular piece of architecture can be influenced by its context, culture, environment or even time. Project: the many different design approaches reflect the particular set of criteria and opportunities in each project. Design Competition: a selection of design competition projects, both first prize winners that are being built as well as unbuilt ones that otherwise may not be presented anywhere. Professional: the most important asset of any architectural practice, its staff, who all work together to deliver our high-quality professional projects.
