DIGITAL COPYRIGHT LAW OF MALAYSIA / Sik Cheng Peng

THOMSON REUTERS ASIA SDN. BHD, Malaysia 2020

1v.

9789672339311

$ 80.00 / null

- The first book on digital copyright law in Malaysia
- Presents the legal position of the emerging copyright issues in the digital sphere in Malaysia
- Makes comparative references to other jurisdictions including the United States, the United Kingdom, and Australia
- Examines the copyright concerns relating to the latest technological developments including cloud computing and artificial intelligence
- The discussion is supported and illustrated with the relevant Malaysian and foreign case law

The fast-developing digital environment has brought about new copyright issues. The ever-changing technologies and activities taking place in the online environment raise fresh copyright questions at a rate that exceeds the pace of the formulation of solutions. Despite the wide interest in digital technologies and the accompanying copyright issues, there is a dearth of legal reference materials which address these issues.

This book examines the copyright issues arising in relation to digital technologies, including the internet, under the copyright law of Malaysia, with comparative reference to the law of other jurisdictions, namely, the United States, the United Kingdom, and Australia. Arguably the first of its kind in Malaysia, this book provides valuable information and guidance to legal advisors, copyright owners, business owners in the digital space, judges and policymakers.

$ 60.00 / HB

The Annotated Rules of the Federal Court 1995 provides invaluable rule-by-rule annotations to the Rules of the Federal Court 1995, throwing light on the application and interpretation of the provisions of the Rules. It is written by an experienced litigator with extensive knowledge of civil procedure and appellate practice in Malaysia. The full text of the Rules accompanies the high-quality annotations which are insightful, practical and authoritative, enabling a confident understanding of the workings of the Rules.

The key terms and phrases in each rule are explained by reference to local and foreign case law as well as academic writing. This publication facilitates quick and easy research with the inclusion of cross-reference from the provision being annotated to related provisions which work together with it. The annotations should prove to be very useful for litigation lawyers, judges, court officers and students of civil procedure.

This publication can be used together with The Annotated Rules of the Court of Appeal 1994 for complete and comprehensive guidance to practice in the appellate courts of Malaysia.

KEY FEATURES:

Rule-by-rule commentary to the Rules written in simple and straightforward style
Commentary supported by copious citation of case authorities

All defined terms are identified with direct cross-references to the provision where each definition is found

Clear page guides assist the user to locate a specific provision or Part of the Rules quickly and efficiently

Professor Simon Young, a constitutional law advocate, is extremely engaged and has taken on board two students to keep abreast of all changes noteworthy of being alerted too. Given the current outbreak of the Rule of Law in Hong Kong, this version of Archbold is perhaps the most important version of the publication to date. Gavin Shui has completely rewritten the chapter on Identification Evidence, and Professor Dyke has provided a section on National Emergency for the chapter on National Security. Apart from the inclusion of a multitude of HKCFA cases and updates to all legislative sections, this edition of Archbold, is without doubt, one of the most important to date.

Tort Law and Practice in Hong Kong / Justice Bokhary (Ed)

Sweet and Maxwell, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789626615188

$ 800.00 / HB

Five years have passed since the previous edition of TLP. In that time there have been systemic legal and societal developments. We are in a time of change. Hong Kong has been a pioneer in establishing the principles for internet defamation. In Robinson, the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom, restated the test for a new duty of care. At the same time, it emphasised that government is subject to conventional tort law analysis. That means greater governmental accountability. Jurisdictions have revisited the core principles of vicarious liability. In the 20th century, tort law regulated industrialisation. In the 21st century, tort law will be shaped by the digital economy. The new edition of TLP both incorporates developments and makes a foray into digital torts. The changes include:

- Ch 1 on nature of torts confronts the new paradigm of digital torts and the emergence of government liability.
- Ch 3 considers how vicarious liability is moving beyond its traditional confines of an employment relationship and the revitalised role of non-delegable duties in a sharing economy.
- Ch 4 on negligence looks at how the test for a new duty of care is evolving in different jurisdictions and what new duties are claimed
- Ch6 on trespass to person expands on the issue of consent
- Ch 13 on rylands v fletcher considers the potential for strict liability torts re-emerging
- Ch 15 on breach of statutory duty incorporates the Australian approach
- Ch 20 on defamation recognises that most defamation is now online and the critical is becoming when an internet intermediary is liable.
- Ch 24 on professional liability adds a number of professions
- Ch 32 on misfeasance has been expanded into a chapter on public authority torts
- A number of chapters have been tightened

The Butterworths® Hong Kong Bankruptcy Law Handbook - Sixth Edition is an essential bankruptcy law reference, setting out the full text of the Bankruptcy Ordinance (Cap 6), the most important piece of legislation pertaining to the administration of bankruptcy law in Hong Kong.

This Handbook presents the consolidated text of the Ordinance in a convenient and up-to-date form with section-by-section annotations. Annotations include references to cases assisting in the interpretation of each section, relevant rules of court, definitions of words and phrases, discussion on practical aspects of application and contentious issues. Hong Kong and UK cases, related legislation and other authoritative materials are identified and discussed in detail. All annotations are fully cross referenced with comprehensive tables of cases and legislation. The Handbook additionally reproduces all subsidiary legislation to the Ordinance currently in force.

This series has been cited, with authority, in over one hundred court cases in the Hong Kong Court of First Instance, Court of Appeal and Court of Final Appeal. This Handbook will be indispensable to lawyers, government officials, banking institutions, businessmen, academics, students and others who are engaged or interested in the dynamic and ever-topical bankruptcy law and practice in Hong Kong.

When there are countless decisions to be made, opponents to handle, clients to manage and a myriad of courses you could follow, you need a source you can trust.

Act with true confidence. Use the Hong Kong White Book 2020 – Hong Kong’s most trusted court companion.

Authored by a talented pool of over 95 authors from top law firms in the jurisdiction, the Hong Kong White Book 2020 continues to provide the most comprehensive coverage of matters relevant to civil procedure.

2020 Edition - What's New?

- The majority of the Orders have been updated including major updates to Orders 59 and 80, and new commentary and legislation.
- Substantial changes to Order 59 on Appeals to the Court of Appeal have caused tremendous confusion. Coverage in the Hong Kong White Book has been fully updated for the 2020 edition, including new legislative sections with commentary.
- Order 103, The Registration of Patents Ordinance, is re-written in the light of the Patents (Amendment) Ordinance which came into force earlier this year. Technology owners now have the additional option of protecting their inventions through ‘Original Grant Patents’, which simplifies the current regime enormously. Hong Kong will now be its own jurisdiction, as opposed to a country where patents first have to be registered in the Mainland, UK or the EPO before being re-registered in Hong Kong.
- Order 119, (HK) Prevention of Bribery Ordinance (Cap.201), previously unedited now has commentary to assist in the interpretation of the legislation.
- The 2020 edition is endorsed by the Judiciary and incorporates over 150 new cases.
- The commentary in Volume II, has been substantially enhanced. This 2020 edition is preceded by a Special Release - EMBEDDING A DEEP, PRACTICAL UNDERSTANDING OF ACTIVE CASE MANAGEMENT, THE UNDERLYING OBJECTIVES AND THE CJR, which discusses adducing new evidence at a relatively late stage, controlling pleadings and costs, as well as the use of O.1A by the Courts to strike out an action.

ADR Volume

- Updates to the Mediation Ordinance commentary takes into account the coming into force of the Third-Party Funding Ordinance, which took effect on the 1 February 2019.

In one of the most important books in the history of Western philosophy, The Republic, Plato illustrates the allegory of the cave. He likens individuals to prisoners who are chained in a cave and unable to turn their heads. They cannot see the real objects behind them but only the cast shadows of the real objects which fall on the cave's wall in front of them.

In the modern era, Lippmann referred to Plato's allegory to explain the media's function in the society. He stated that individuals rely on the shadows which fall on the cave's wall to understand the world and that shadows are the media content (Lippmann, 1922). Since individuals cannot directly face the most of the incidents about the public, the media content is the shadow of the wall which individuals get information from the outside world. Although most of the time politics are focused on as a part of the 'outside world' in the literature, the institution of judiciary is also a significant part of that world because legal cases constitutes an important part of the media content, and the public generally sees judiciary through its shadows on the media.

This study aims to observe the mediatization of the judiciary in Turkey. The author regards the media as a part of the construction of social and cultural reality together with the social and cultural sphere, adopting the social-constructivist approach. In this manner, six popular legal cases in Turkey that have different legal grounds are selected and a multiple case study is conducted by analyzing the legal processes on one hand and news and tweets covering such processes on the other for each case.

Ho & Hall's Hong Kong Contract Law – Fifth Edition / Stephen Hall
Lexis Nexis, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789888600229

Ho & Hall's Hong Kong Contract Law - Fifth Edition, written by Stephen Hall, is a comprehensive work which expertly identifies the unique local characteristics of Hong Kong contract law. The text balances theoretical and policy discussion with practical considerations, including clear illustrative examples of the law at work. It is the author's hope that this fifth edition of Betty Ho's principal work on contract law can build on her legacy and make a contribution to the further emergence of a Hong Kong common law of contract.

Over the last approximately thirty years it is possible to discern an acceleration in the pace at which the common law in Hong Kong has been developing some distinctly local characteristics. The law of contract is no exception in this regard. Undoubtedly, the approaching end of British sovereignty had much to do with this development during the earlier part of the 1990s when the second edition of this book appeared. Since the foundation of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region, a principal impetus has been the work of the new Court of Final Appeal (CFA) which was established to replace the Privy Council as the highest court for the territory. The CFA was originally something of an experiment, but it is now possible to pronounce it a notable success. The localisation of Hong Kong's highest court has contributed, and will almost certainly continue to contribute, significantly to the emergence of a Hong Kong common law. A consequence of these developments is the growing body of Hong Kong case law in traditional common law areas such as contract. This has been especially evident in the period since the end of British sovereignty. It is the author's hope that this fifth edition of Betty Ho's principal work on contract law can build on her legacy and make a contribution to the further emergence of a Hong Kong common law of contract.

Bribery and Corruption is a detailed and expansive guide to bribery and corruption law in Hong Kong. The jurisprudence relating to the common law offence of misconduct in public office continues to grow as the offence is more frequently employed by prosecutors against abuses of their office by public officials. Recent case law which helps to define the parameters of the offence is discussed. In order to make the book a more practical tool for legal professionals, the Prevention of Bribery Ordinance (Cap 201) and the Independent Commission Against Corruption Ordinance (Cap 204) are included.

Janab's Key To The Law of Evidence, Advocacy and Professional Ethics, written by Justice Datuk Dr Hj. Hamid Sultan Bin Abu Backer, is now successfully in its 5th edition updated up to the third quarter of 2018. It is a must for all legal practitioners, whether in criminal or civil practice, and equally for all law lecturers and students. A mastery of this subject is indispensable for any advocate.

Dato' Seri Chan Sek Keong, the former Chief Justice of Singapore, in his foreword to the fourth edition of this book said "For those who ... do not have personal knowledge of the more recent developments ... whether through legislation or court decisions, this book provides the key to open the treasure-house of ... case law on ... the Evidence Act."

The law of evidence is so linked with advocacy and professional ethics that this edition, revised by Dato' Mah Weng Kwai and prominent legal practitioners Arun Kasi and Datuk Joy Appukuttan, has been added with an additional part to cover advocacy and professional ethics. Apart from that, this book is divided into two parts on the law of evidence. One covers all aspects of the law of evidence in 61 sub-chapters and another is a commentary on all the 167 sections of the Evidence Act 1950.

MALAYSIAN TORT LAW / Wan Azlan Ahmad & Mohsin Hingun

THOMSON REUTERS ASIA SDN. BHD, Malaysia 2019

1v.

9789672187981

$ 100.00 / HB

Adopting an analytical approach, this book presents a comprehensive coverage of tort law in Malaysia. Besides the tort of negligence which takes central focus, less common torts like wrongs in relation to legal process, breach of statutory duty, harassment, liability for animals and intentional tort to the person are given due coverage. Other popular areas of tort like nuisance, occupiers' liability, defamation and product liability are provided careful consideration. The topics of vicarious liability, remedies and applicable defences are explored in depth to complete the discussion in this book.

The book endeavours to consider Malaysian tort law in light of development in major Commonwealth jurisdictions, covering matters that have and have not been considered by local appellate courts. Where specific issues are not covered by local precedent, the book attempts to point the way forward for the future development of Malaysian law, guided by judicial opinion and discussions of policy considerations overseas.

The authors have drawn on their deep experience to meticulously analyse the law to prepare a text that will benefit practitioners, judges, judicial officers, academics and students.

KEY FEATURES

The law is succinctly explained, in many instances displaying its development

Reference is made to developments in major Commonwealth countries to add depth to the discussion and analysis

Relevant judicial dicta are quoted to support the statements of law

Possible directions for the future development of Malaysian law are carefully considered

Contains extensive reference to local and foreign case law

Content is structured in detail for the easy appreciation of readers

Panel of contributors consists of experienced corporate insolvency practitioners from both the legal and accounting professions
Fully up-to-date with citation of relevant statutory provisions
Replete with invaluable leading local and foreign case authorities
Illuminates the difficult areas of corporate insolvency law and practice, such as investigations, cross-border insolvency and company voluntary arrangements
When companies are successful, businesses prosper. When companies can no longer pay their debts, they become insolvent, and businesses fail.

In addressing the complex technical subject of corporate insolvency, this textbook provides invaluable legal and practical guidance from an experienced group of legal and accountancy practitioners writing in collaboration. Contemporary challenges which face both practitioners and judges are addressed by incisive analysis and commentary.

This book deals comprehensively with the law of corporate insolvency in Malaysia, as follows:

discusses schemes of arrangement judicial management and company voluntary arrangements under the Companies Act 2016
the winding-up process
the effects of winding-up, proof, valuation and ranking of claims the avoidance of antecedent transactions investigations proceedings against the directors tax in liquidation and more

The practical and analytical approach taken by this book greatly helps both those who are new to corporate insolvency practice in Malaysia as well as lawyers who would find the materials and references in this book a useful point of first reference.

LexisNexis, Malaysia 2019

2v.

9789674008420

$ 250.00 / HB

This edition looks at recent decisions, including case law from other jurisdictions, on the National Land Code, and analyses their relationship to the operation of the Code. In particular, references are made to cases in contract law, and equity, trusts and remedies, which are influential and relevant in the operation of land matters. This is especially so, where the cases are applicable to the principles of statutory contract law and to local influences on equitable principles. Recent legislative amendments made in the last several years are accompanied by explanatory commentary on the need for the amendments and their application. This title also considers the concept of indefeasibility in detail, along with interests or rights in land which are outside the scope of the Code, that could be dealt with in contract, but is given some relevance to land ownership.

Banking Law - 5th Edition / Datin Dr Lee Mei Pheng
LexisNexis, Malaysia 2019

1v.

9789674008369

The first edition of Banking Law was published in 1995. In the 25 years since then, with the advent of electronic, internet, and mobile banking, this area of law in Malaysia has undergone many changes. The banking industry has also faced new obstacles, both domestically and abroad, owing to concerns like compliance, corporate governance, ethics, risk management, financial crimes, and money laundering. With this, we have seen the landscape of the banking industry change drastically, now facing more challenges and becoming more regulated.

This Fifth Edition encompasses the many developments since the last edition was published in 2012, including changes that we have seen to the legislation, regulations, case law, and other legal issues. This information is beneficial to a vast audience, including regulators, supervisors, bankers, professionals, corporations and businesses, and students. In line with the previous publications, this new edition provides crucial insight into the wide areas of banking law but remains in a format easy to understand.

Contract Law in Malaysia, 2nd Edition / Abdul Majid bin Nabi Baksh
LexisNexis, Malaysia 2019

1v.

9789674008536

$ 110.00 / HB

This second edition of the text offers a thoroughly updated and comprehensive account of the law of contract including chapters on Assignment, Bailment and Guarantees and Indemnities, and presents an in-depth exposition of these and other topics in Contract Law in prose that is clear, concise and readable. Case authorities are drawn from the United Kingdom and other common law jurisdictions where relevant, to supplement the extensive reference to local cases in the context of the Contracts Act 1950 and related legislation. The authors have drawn on their extensive experience in professional legal practice, teaching contract law in diverse jurisdictions and a track record of academic research and publication in Malaysia and elsewhere. A salient feature of the text is that detailed case summaries and extracts from leading judgments are set out in support of the legal principles involved. This approach not only assists the student in appreciating the underlying legal processes but also to use the book as a 'stand-alone' text.

Using one of the continent's supposed pathfinders, Cameroon as case-study, this book interrogates judiciary in Africa in three domains. First, as the third branch of government, second, as the acknowledged umpire of federalism, and, finally, as a means of reversing the institutionalization of in-human rights and injustice administration in Africa. While examining the roots and causes of the persisting human rights and justice administration problems in Cameroon particularly, and Africa in general, the book through the tumbu-tumbu Long-Distance Government Theory (LDGT), argues for a rethinking and freeing of strategies currently used from close to a century of colonial and neo-colonial bondage, under the confusing covers of 'independence' and of 'advanced democracy'. The book challenges Africa to consider a mentality change, for a 'real' judiciary transformative change. The book will interest legal practitioners, social anthropologists, development studies and political science practitioners, among other such practitioners in the social sciences and humanities.

In this book, Professor Islam examines the quest of Bangladesh for transition from its violent past to the peaceful future through judicial trials of atrocities committed during its liberation war in 1971. These international crimes trials, held under a domestic legislation, are uniquely distinct from international or hybrid international crimes trials. The book is a ground-breaking research work on the first ever such trials in the ICC era. It comprehensively analyses the hardcore legal issues contested in the tribunals and their judicial expositions reflected in all trial, appeal, and review judgments delivered as at the end of 2018. The author shows how the national law and judgments can be a conduit to import international law to enrich and harmonise the domestic law of Bangladesh; and whether the Bangladesh experience creates precedential effect for such future trials, offers lessons for the ICC complementarity, and contributes to the progressive development of Asian and international criminal jurisprudence.

Hong Kong Civil Court Practice is the original practitioner's reference work on civil procedure in Hong Kong, having first been published in 1994. This title contains the full text of the Rules of the High Court (Cap 4A) with extensive commentary which reflects Hong Kong's experience with the civil justice reforms which were implemented in April 2009, as well as the Competition Tribunal Rules. Commentary includes not only Hong Kong cases and materials but also those of relevance from the UK and other common law jurisdictions around the world. Such authorities have been carefully selected for relevance to Hong Kong, and are included where they might provide guidance unavailable in local decisions. Carefully chosen extracts from the UK's Civil Court Practice have been included reflecting the addition years of experience of the courts there.

Written by a team of experts, Hong Kong Civil Court Practice – Desk Edition 2019 is a practitioner's essential reference work intended for use by all members of the legal community.

$ 275.00 / null

In the recent years, the world has witnessed a series of impressive, albeit disruptive, developments in the cross-border eco-political, technological, commercial and regulatory landscapes, which impact heavily on how international businesses formulate and execute their growth strategies. As the global economies continue to integrate, increasingly driven by the influence of China's Belt and Road initiative, it is time to re-examine the legal and commercial factors affecting global investments and cross-border mergers and acquisitions.

This book provides a comprehensive overview and practical guidance for business executives and legal practitioners in global business projects, with a review of legal developments in Hong Kong and Mainland China as well as certain representative Western and Middle East countries such as the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Belgium and United Arabs Emirates and the restrictions and regulations on foreign investments in those countries.

Readers will benefit from the model documents, practical examples and explanatory notes which exemplify the steps, procedures, documentation and issues involved in cross-border M&A transactions.

This book sets out the basic principles and practices of criminal procedure in Hong Kong, which is still to a large extent based on the laws of England and Wales. Criminal procedure in Hong Kong is best understood in the context of legal developments in England and Wales and other commonwealth jurisdictions, notably Canada and Australia. However, criminal procedure in Hong Kong is not simply a derivative of English law; political and legal changes effected by the handover of Hong Kong to the Peoples' Republic of China in 1997, and the concomitant advent of law reforms initiated by the government of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region are also fully reflected in this text. This book forms the first part of a series on criminal justice in Hong Kong – the other titles being on the law of evidence and criminal law (general principles and specific offences). The cross-references in the three volumes underscore the practical and theoretical interplay between the three subject areas, which will prove useful for academics, students, and practitioners alike.

This is a compendium of administrative law and judicial review in Papua New Guinea. In this book the author precisely recounts the history of the development of administrative law and judicial review in England and some other common law jurisdictions. The main theme of the book is, however, devoted to judicial review in Papua New Guinea. The practice and procedure for appealing from the decision of the National Court in judicial review are unique and onerous. This book evaluates them in detail to give the readers a complete sense of reference. The interlocutory procedures encapsulated in this book are also relevant for any proceeding before the courts. At the end of various chapters, the author makes some insightful and thought-provoking commentaries on gaps found in judicial review. The book is an authoritative text for lawyers, law students, academia, judicial officers and other interested persons alike. It is a must read for lawyers and law students who seek to be familiar with the often cumbersome judicial review procedures and practices. For students and scholars in other disciplines who aim to learn and abreast themselves of how administrative law affects administrative action and public policy, this book is a perfect choice. The book dissects complex administrative law concepts and enables lay persons, including those in the public service, to fully understand and apply them. The book is a valuable resource material for the Pacific Island countries like Fiji, Vanuatu and Solomon Islands, who have adopted the common law legal systems similar to Papua New Guinea.

The Dawn of Consumer Protection in Tanzania builds on the author's one decade of on-the-ground experience on consumer protection in Tanzania. The book highlights challenges and opportunities facing consumers in Tanzania and Africa in general. It outlines the antidotes of consumer protection and further addresses the hurdles that hold back consumer protection. This book provides an historical perspective of consumer protection development that has been made over decades. The book outline the concerted efforts made by Tanzania in setting up consumer protection mechanism enshrined in regulatory and competition authorities. It brings to light the weaknesses of many laws which make protection difficult. Thus, the book calls for a comprehensive consumer protection legal framework, policy and laws. The Dawn of Consumer Protection in Tanzania sets out a new paradigm of a needed and responsive consumer protection in Tanzania, which is built on strong consumer protection policy and law. It argues extensively for the need for a three-tiered-legal framework consumer protection model, which creates checks and balances in the market.

The first of its kind, this book presents a comprehensive collection of leading patent cases from nine major Asian jurisdictions which are analyzed by eminent scholars and legal practitioners from Asia, Germany, and the United States. It contains thirty case reports covering six topics which best reflect the current trends in Asia in patent law, namely specialized IP court (or division), compulsory licensing, the intersection between patent law and competition law, injunction, damages, and choice of jurisdiction and law in cross-border patent litigation. Each case report explores a landmark case by deconstructing the legal background and the legal reasoning of the decisions, and then discussing the commercial and/or industrial ramifications.

The present volume is a useful guide for practitioners, lawyers, and judges alike, a primer for students and businessmen entering the IP world, and a reminder for policymakers, both within Asia and further afield.

A Special Standing in the World : A History of the Faculty of Law at The University of Hong Kong / Christopher Munn

Hong Kong University Press, Hongkong 2019

$ 32.00 / HB

The history of the Faculty of Law at HKU is in many ways the history of the law in modern Hong Kong. Founded in 1969, the Faculty has helped transform a colonial legal backwater into a flourishing jurisdiction, in which Hong Kong maintains its common law system as a special administrative region of the People's Republic of China. The Faculty has played a vital part in fostering a legal profession firmly rooted in Hong Kong, functioning in both Chinese and English. Its early teachers pioneered scholarship on Hong Kong law. Its graduates now make up over half of Hong Kong's Judiciary and legal profession. Over the years the Faculty has earned worldwide recognition as a centre of research in subjects ranging from human rights to financial regulation.

Published to mark the Golden Jubilee, this book traces the Faculty's rise from humble origins to its position as one of the world's leading law schools. Drawing on archives, publications and interviews, the book explores the growth of the Faculty against the momentous events of the past 50 years. The first two chapters examine the Faculty's prehistory when, for over a hundred years, most of Hong Kong's lawyers were trained in England. The remaining six chapters explore alternately the Faculty's internal history and its role in building Hong Kong's modern legal system.

The Philippine Competition Law was the legislative thrust during its deliberation and eventual enactment into law that — a fair competition policy will level the playing field for Filipino businesses and also allow more Filipinos to exercise their entrepreneurial spirit. With annotations on the Republic Act No. 10667 or more commonly known as the Philippine Competition Act - as well as A.M. No. 19-08-06-SC or the Rule on Administrative Search and Inspection under the Philippine Competition Act - promulgated by the Supreme Court, utilizing legal concepts, principles, allied laws and applicable jurisprudence to highlight the individual provisions of the law as well as the Rules.

This book made use of the deliberations conducted during committee and plenary session in order to truly flesh out and ascertain the legislative intent behind the law. As this is, and will always be a continuing work in progress - this humble work does not purport to be an exhaustive exposition on the law and the Rules - but rather, a humble attempt to introduce the litigant, practitioner and each interested stockholder on the nuances of the law and the application of the Rules promulgated by the Supreme Court in relation to said law.

In this book, the author started with a brief historical background on how intellectual property system evolved. This is important because it tells readers not just the law but how the law came about. Indeed, with the advent of technology and the fast paced evolution of issues on intellectual property it is always best to revisit its historical development to arrive at an appropriate contextual analysis.

International Commercial Arbitration in Hong Kong: A Guide / Stephen D Mau

Hong Kong University Press, Hongkong 2019

$ 95.00 / HB

International Commercial Arbitration in Hong Kong: A Guide provides an essential introduction to commercial arbitration law and practices, focusing on Hong Kong as an example of a model law jurisdiction with a pro-arbitration stance. With the evolution and increasing popularity of dispute resolution in the international arena, one is no longer able to rely purely on knowledge of the local law and practices.

This timely book is written in simple English and clearly arranged in a step-by-step format. Newcomers to this legal field will find the principles covered in the book easy to understand. It begins with an overview of the various "Alternative Dispute Resolution" choices available in Hong Kong. The remainder of the book covers all the aspects that one needs to know about commercial arbitration, including the advantages and disadvantages of arbitration in general; the laws and rules; the appointment of a sole arbitrator or a tribunal; the arbitrator's jurisdiction, duties, and authorities, and how they are defined within the Arbitration Ordinance (Cap. 609); the arbitration process; the contents of an arbitral award and the recognition and enforcement of the award; and cost-saving techniques in arbitration.

Experienced arbitrators and senior legal practitioners will also find International Commercial Arbitration in Hong Kong: A Guide to be a valuable reference on the various concepts and latest case precedents.

Revised Corporation Code of the Philippines : Republic Act No. 11232

Revised Corporation Code of the Philippines (Republic Act No. 11232):
Commentaries and Cases is the authors' modest contribution in explaining the Revised Corporation Code of the Philippines approved on February 20, 2019.

The book incorporates recent changes in the Code which include 1) persons or entities who/which could be incorporators, 2) the concept of a one-person corporation, 3) technological developments in Philippines that make possible the virtual attendance of stockholders or directors in meetings, allowing them to vote on issues of primary concern to them, although not physically present.

Essentially, however, basic principles in corporation law such as the corporation's separate juridical personality and the possibility of piercing the veil of corporate fi ction when the corporation's juridical personality is misused remain.

These two features of the Revised Code—the constant retained and the changes introduced—indicate the clear intent of lawmakers to ease doing business in the Philippines.

The subject Special Penal Laws (SPLs) was not part of the old law curriculum. Under the old curriculum, the study of criminal law was only limited to Revised Penal Code, that is, Criminal Law 1 deals with Book 1 of the Code while Criminal Law 2 touches on specific felonies of Book 2. With the influx of the new special penal laws, the new curriculum prescribes Special Penal Laws as an elective 2-unit subject. The inclusion of this subject in the curriculum underscores its importance in the study of criminal law in preparation for the bar examinations.

Hong Kong Family Law Reports 2018 / Sharon Ser, Philippa Hewitt (Eds)

Lexis Nexis, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789888600458

$ 695.00 / HB

In common with many jurisdictions around the world, Hong Kong has seen growth in the number of family law petitions filed with the courts. Family law is increasingly becoming an area where clients are best served by specialist practitioners and judges. Cultural imperatives have given rise to a marked deviation between Hong Kong and English case authorities, resulting in family law in Hong Kong no longer being a mirror of the law in England. Although overseas cases are still frequently relied upon in submissions, it is apparent that reliance upon Hong Kong cases is becoming imperative.

Few Hong Kong family law judgments make it to the general law reports. The result has been that practitioners are denied the ability to arm themselves with the relevant authorities. This lack of resources has not only impeded practitioners but had a direct impact on service levels to litigants. The Hong Kong Family Law Reports address this gap. This comprehensive collection of judgments offers evidence of the intellectual arguments surrounding judicial discretion in the full spectrum of family law cases. The Hong Kong Family Law Reports is intended to support the consistency and continuing development of this important area of the law and is an essential reference for practitioners and academics alike.

Intellectual Property in Hong Kong / Douglas Clark

Lexis Nexis, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789888600021

$ 395.00 / HB

In recent years, intellectual property has taken centre stage in much policy making worldwide. In line with this, the Hong Kong government is committed to making Hong Kong an innovation hub.

In this new environment Intellectual Property in Hong Kong will be a go-to tool for practitioners, academics, students and others interested in Hong Kong intellectual property law and issues.

The division on patent law deals with the changes to the Patents Ordinance which will come into force when the original patent grant system is introduced sometime in 2019. The division sets out the procedures that will be in place to apply for patents directly in Hong Kong and provide practical hands-on guidance for readers on the handling of patent cases.

At the end of 2018, the Hong Kong Judiciary announced that a specialist list would be established during 2019 with two judges assigned to hear intellectual property cases. Practitioners have been informed that the goal will be to try all cases within 18 months.

The establishment of an IP list is a very welcome development which should see the enforcement of IP rights in Hong Kong improve substantially and strongly support the goal of the Hong Kong government to establish Hong Kong as an innovation hub.

$ 225.00 / null

As peculiar to the law of trade marks, commercial acumen meets creative endeavour in the most wonderful of ways. However, the high commercial value of branding so often leads to a fracas over the ownership of this creativity, and often involves minute arguments about “distinctiveness”.

Accordingly, this handbook aims to make available in a convenient and up-to-date form the consolidated text of the Trade Marks Ordinance (Cap 559). This book provides section-by-section annotations covering significant judicial decisions, rules of court, definitions of words and phrases, discussions on practical aspects, contentious issues, and other authoritative materials.

This handbook will be an indispensable companion for Intellectual Property lawyers and professionals, marketers, company directors, in-house counsel, Public Relations companies, company secretaries, students and all those who are engaged or interested in the design, preparation, registration and enforcement of trade marks in Hong Kong.

Hong Kong Law of Evidence / Andra Le Roux-Kemp

CCH Wolters Kluwer, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789887935629

This book sets out the basic principles of the Law of Evidence in Hong Kong, for both criminal and civil legal proceedings. To a large extent, the laws in Hong Kong still resemble those of England and Wales prior to the handover of Hong Kong to the People's Republic of China on 1 July 1997. However, the evidentiary principles and rules of Hong Kong law are not simply a derivative of English law; the Hong Kong Law of Evidence has also been guided in its development by comparable legal reforms in other commonwealth jurisdictions, notably Canada and Australia. These, and other unique developments with regard to the Law of Evidence in Hong Kong are fully reflected in this text.

Conveyancing and Property Litigation in Hong Kong – Second Edition / Andrew Mak

Lexis Nexis, Hong Kong 2019

1v.

9789888477593

Protection of property rights is never easy. It is even more important in Hong Kong, where space is at a premium and record prices for land transactions are constantly being set. Conveyancing and Property Litigation in Hong Kong provides readers with an overview of the legal issues that may affect a property. The book covers topics at every stage of a conveyancing transaction – before a sale of property, enjoyment of the property, and disposal of the property.

With a unique character of land law from other Commonwealth jurisdictions, conveyancing practice in Hong Kong can be challenging for those unfamiliar with it. This book is written to guide practitioners through many of the common issues that may arise in conveyancing disputes, including adverse possession, easements over neighbouring land, building management disputes, and restrictive covenants in Government leases.

Each topic is analysed through the lens of Hong Kong's system of land holding with extensive reference to practical evidential and procedural issues. Conveyancing and Property Litigation in Hong Kong is written in a succinct and structured style, which makes it not only useful for practitioners, but for estate agents and investors as well.

Legal Problems of Economic Globalization: A Commentary on the Law and Practice 2nd Edition / Julien Chaisee

CCH Wolters Kluwer, Hong Kong 2017

1v.

9789887741305

$ 225.00 / null

Part I explains the foundations, scope and sources of international economic law.

Part II gives a thorough overview of multilevel trade and investment regulation and related adjudication.

Part III elaborates topical business problems of the global economy, such as sovereign debt restructuring, international taxation, sovereign wealth funds, green energy investments and performance requirements, rules of origin and trademark regulations, anti-dumping duties, countervailing duties and other 'trade remedies'.

Part IV analyses related public policy problems like international economic migrations, health regulations limiting international economic transactions, international economic law rules governing sanitation and water services provided by multinational companies, and governmental protection of 'public morality' in international economic law, for instance by restricting imports of certain goods and services that offend prevailing moral views in the importing country.
