Palaeolithic Industries of Bhimbetka Central India
A Morphometric Study

Author: MD Shafiqul Alam

The book reveals for the first time a comprehensive study of the temporal variation in Palaeolithic assemblages in a primary context in India. The analysis has been made with a view to assess the typo-technological, functional, cultural and stylistic variations of lithic artifacts.

The book incorporates a chapter on Prehistory of Bangladesh as an appendix which presents an overview of the prehistoric discovery so far made in the country particularly emphasizing the Lalmrai-Mainamati industry explored by the author in the early 90s of the last century.

State of Human Rights in Bangladesh and Related Issues

Author : M. Maniruzzaman Miah

Here is an account of violation of Human Rights in Bangladesh to-day. It is the considered view of HR watchers that such violation has been rampant right from the time the present of government came to power. It has taken many different forms: death in police custody, gunning down political opponents in public, setting armed hooligans to disperse opposition meetings or processions, instituting false cases against opposition politicians and harassing them, threatening members of the judiciary, torturing journalists, misusing a tyrannical law, passing new legislation denying the accused bail and a host of similar planned action aimed at dissenters of the regime. This book is an attempt to recount the story of such inhuman acts.

Wedding and the Wild Kite

Translated and Editor : Mohammad Nurul Huda

Wedding and the Wild Kite are the translations of Momtazuddin Ahmed’s two remarkable plays entitled Bibaho and Ki Chaho Shonkhochil respectively, by Mohammad Nurul Huda. They mainly deal with two of the most significant junctures of our national history, the Language movement of 1952 and the War Liberation in 1971.

In Wedding the plot pivots round the leading character Sakhina who remains for life a would-be-bride of a language-martyr killed by police firing on the streets of Dhaka on Twentyfirst February of 1952, upholding the spirit of the Language Movement. The while breasted kite flying in the sky symbolizes loneliness of a helpless woman divided into two opposing identities: a loving mother and a loyal wife.

Bangladesh in the new Millennium

Editor: Mohiuddin Ahmad

In this context, it is necessary to locate us in the global arena. Where are we? In a bid to present an anatomy of Bangladesh in a proper perspective, we have initiated a series of publications. The first one in the series with a title “Bangladesh Towards 21st century” was published in May 1999 which included nine essays. This volume second in the series, contains seventeen essays and provides a detailed dissection of our political and socio-economic environment.

Eastern Himalayan Culture, Ecology and People

Author: Hasna Jasimuddin Moudud

The author defines the eastern part of South Asia consisting of Bangladesh, Nepal, Bhutan and northeastern states of India, as a separate sub-region, which she labels the “Eastern Himalayas”. She comments we shared enormous knowledge culture and compassion before we came to be branded as belonging to one of the most impoverished regions of the world. It is our proud heritage and our generations must know that we were once a center of a prosperous and learned region.

Middle class and the social revolution in Bengal
An incomplete Agenda

Author: Serajul Islam Choudhury

This book examines the double role of the Bengali middle class. Middle class’s participation in politics and achievements in the fields of education, literature and culture have been remarkable. Nevertheless, radical social transformation leading to economic advancement of the masses, liberation of the latent energies of the people and reduction in discrimination and inequality has not been on its agenda, despite public protestations to the contrary. The common man has felt the oppression of the social system in his bones but has remained unable to articulate his demands.

The Socio-Cultural Study of Folklore

Author : Mazharul Islam

This book deals with the evaluation of the genres of folklore, keeping in view the relation between the society and folklore. It is true that the genres of folklore are the creation of the society.

Folklore constitutes a very important and large area of folk-culture. To make this very particular aspect understandable, we require a deeper socio-cultural study of folklore. While making the scientific as well as analytic study of folklore all through his life, the author has found a great lack in making such an approach in the realm of folkloristics. The present volume has attempted to fill up this long-felt gap to link up society with the different genres of folklore.
