Professor Benneh presents a career that few can equal and recounts his successes as well as his shortcomings with candour and great courage. The history of a great nation is presented by an insider—that would be enough incentive to read this book. Always more than a historical account, the reader sees the life of a great man who continues, even in adversity, to write a story that will inspire people of all ages, political ties and religious faiths.

Economics/Development Studies

Fixing Ghana : Removing the Brakes to Progress / A. O. Abudu

Accra: Creative Opportunities, 2016

336p.

9789988118907

$ 30.00 / PB

382gm.

Using his home country, Ghana, only as an example of decades of economic and social conditions coasting in reverse gear in most of Sub-Saharan Africa, the author has two objectives. One of these presents reasons that cannot be denied for Africa's present man-made degenerating conditions that our governments sustain by default or even by drift. However, most of this book focuses on practical and feasible remedies directed at the root causes of Africa's conditions of mass poverty in the midst of potential plenty.

The solutions in this book offer a true paradigm shift away from decades of incoherent systems of economic and social management that lack focus. The author then presents several innovative strategies that include: (a) enhancing genuine citizen participation as shareholders in an enterprise called Ghana Ltd; (b) infusing transparently applied merit into public sector appointments and enabling employees to be more efficient and less corrupt; (c) a total overhaul of Ghana's current system of formal education that functions as a silent and highly powerful weapon of mass destruction; (d) injecting gender balance into all elective political offices; (e) creating level playing fields and drastically reducing the costs for all candidates that run for elective political office; (f) injecting a bit more of consensual decision-making into the prevailing winner-takes-all nature of political processes that severely polarize the population; and (g) extending democracy beyond elections.

Although there has been a number of studies on black resistance, very few of these have focused exclusively on such a wide range of resistance campaigns and strategies within a single volume. One of the central arguments of this study is that from as early as the sixteenth century, when Europeans attempted to systematically exploit Africans, black people have engaged in a variety of organised and sustained resistance campaigns to assert their independence and identity. This book examines some of the different strategies employed by black people in Africa and the Diaspora in response to European domination and exploitation. Drawing upon research from scholars based at the University of Cape Coast in Ghana and the University of the West Indies, Jamaica, this collection of original essays covers the academic disciplines of African and Caribbean history, literature, politics and psychology.

Patriotism and Nation Building : Perspectives from the Life and Utterances of Ephraim Amu / Philip Tetteh Laryea (Foreword) Emmanuel Yartekwei Amugri Lartey

Legon-Accra: Sub-Saharan Publishers, 2017

x, 400p.

9789988647452

$ 50.00 / PB

616gm.

The deepest and most significant aspect of the heritage of any nation lies in her people. A people's dignity, worth and value can be measured by their human resources. More important than mineral wealth, more significant than financial capital and of more value than land and property, are the leaders of thought and character, that a communal or social group can lay claim to. Towering above the tallest buildings, reaching deeper than the roots of ancient trees, are society's icons, doyens of a people's life and culture. Often unrecognized in their lifetime, sometimes vilified or else silenced by political forces, these persons represent a people's legacy and gift to humankind. Such was Dr. Ephraim Amu, native of Peki Avetile, son of West Africa's "Gold Coast", scholar, teacher, musician, ethicist, and preacher. In this book, Prof. Laryea has by careful and detailed research, rendered an invaluable service to posterity in unearthing and making available the life, works and public speeches of Dr Ephraim Amu. Thoughtfully selecting over sixty of Amu's sermons spanning a period of 50 years (1937 - 1986), Laryea enables us to more deeply enter the inner thoughts and expressions of one of Ghana's most illustrious sons, thus allowing us into the veritable engine room of the composer of Ghana's national song, "Yân ara asase ni", crafted by Amu in 1929. In doing so he has also opened up and thrown light upon very significant periods in the nation's history.

Literature

Sebitically Speaking / (Ed) Nana Awere Damoah

Accra, Ghana: Nana Awere Damoah, 2015

200p.

9781505742404

$ 14.99 / PB

226gm.

Sebitically Speaking is an uplifting elixir that courses through the hearts and minds of readers and awakens their consciousness regarding how to improve themselves and their country. In confronting the complicated issues that perpetually frustrate Ghanaians, Damoah's style was not to depress or provoke insanity, but to deftly inspire readers with a view to affecting positive change. For someone who has written four great books, Sebitically Speaking is an incontrovertible confirmation of Damoah's literary genius. His uncanny ability to transform debilitating and chaotic socio-political topics into an exhilarating literary rollercoaster, using a perfect blend of wit and humour, and inducing a mixture of laughter and tears from readers, is especially evident in this book. Sebitically Speaking is an irresistible literary tiger nut that every lover of Ghana must chew.

Serwah - tall, elegant, strong-willed and having the kind of beauty which inspire songs, - uses wisdom to win her prince. Owusu - handsome and the heartthrob of every girl, a breaker of hearts, finally meets his match in Serwah, whom he desperately seeks to conquer. Can the love of two strong-willed royals survive the upheavals of true love? The novel is full of remarkable insights into some cultural practices including naming ceremonies, betrothals, marriages, funerals, and the installation of chiefs in Ghana.

Amerley is not your average teenager--well, she does love books and fashion and her boyfriend, Nikoi, but that is where the similarity ends. She's become a mother and a father to her three younger sisters, not that she minds because family means everything to Amerley. When financial constraints make her relocate to a plush neighbourhood in East Legon, she puts her own dreams aside in order to be a maid to make her family's life better. But how far should her self-sacrifice go? Doesn't her own life matter? Will she always put her family first even when it puts her own life at risk?
