Cheche, a radical socialist student magazine at the University of Dar es Salaam, first came out in 1969. Featuring incisive analyses of key societal issues by prominent Progressives, it gained national and international recognition in a short while. The former editors and associates of Cheche revive the salutary episode of student activism in this book with fast flowing, humor spiced stories and astute socio-economic analyses.

Today, for the Tanzanian, the town has become Bongoland, that is, a place where survival is a matter of cunning and intelligence (bongo means 'brain' in Kiswahili). Far from being an anecdote, this slide into toponomy records the mutations that affect the links that Tanzanians maintain with their principal city and the manner in which it represents them.
