SYM, Galicano, and PASPI : Portrait Artists Society of the Philippines, Inc.
/ Amadis Ma. Guerrero (Eds) Diana Onate & Portia Placino
Quezon City: Erehwon Artworld Corporation, 2020
194p.

The book focuses on the careers of SYM Mendoza and Romulo Galicano. But it also lurches forward to discuss the Portrait Artists Society of the Philippines, Inc. (PASPI), even as it bends in the same vein backwards to appraise the inspiration of Martino Abellana. It is important to note that the story of art that this publication tells does not begin in Manila, perceived to be the center of the solar system of the Philippine art world. It rather unfolds in Carcar in Cebu. This in itself contributes significantly to the body of literature on a species of Philippine art ... - Amadis Ma. Guerrero

$ 20.00 / PB
240gm.

Feminist and activist nun Sr. Mary John Mananzan goes down memory lane, marveling at God's goodness and generosity in this autobiography. She looks back at her life and her spiritual journey from her girlhood in Bayambang to her life as a novice to her spiritual crisis in Spain. She reminisces about her political awakening upon returning from overseas studies and her decision to support the labor protests, standing up for justice, truth, and social transformation. Through all these, she wishes to say, "Thank you, God, for all the wonderful things you have done in my life!"

In Ascending the Fourth Mountain, Maria Virginia Yap Morales tells her story of the martial law years and of the widespread participation of women against violations of human rights and sexual abuse under military detention. This book is the story of a woman who struggled for equality within a revolutionary movement and fully participated to draft the orientation of the Malayang Kilusan ng Bagong Kababaihan (MAKIBAKA) which had its origins in the years before martial rule. More than that, this book is the author's inner journey to discover and study herself, and to eventually see through the mote in her own eye that blurs a fourth mountain looming large, blocking her vision of political and social transformation.

$ 116.48 / HB

524gm. ; 15.6x23.4cm.

The Spanish Pacific designates the space Spain colonized or aspired to rule in Asia between 1521 -- with the arrival of Ferdinand Magellan -- and 1815 -- the end of the Manila-Acapulco galleon trade route. It encompasses what we identify today as the Philippines and the Marianas, but also Spanish America, China, Japan, and other parts of Asia that in the Spanish imagination were extensions of its Latin American colonies. This reader provides a selection of documents relevant to the encounters and entanglements that arose in the Spanish Pacific among Europeans, Spanish Americans, and Asians while highlighting the role of natives, mestizos, and women. A-first-of-its-kind, each of the documents in this collection was selected, translated into English, and edited by a different scholar in the field of early modern Spanish Pacific studies, who also provided commentary and bibliography.

The features and advantages of ADR are widely discussed in extant literature and this book will undoubtedly touch on them extensively and expertly. These discussions tend to support the argument that ADR mechanisms are far better alternatives to the formalistic and lengthy court trials. This is true for the most part. ADR mechanisms improve on the formalistic and adversarial court processes, making possible the faster resolution of disputes and conflicts.

The traditional Filipino family consists of the husband, the wife, and their progeny. However, some couples may encounter challenges in trying to conceive children due to infertility, physical disability, disease, or other physiological complications. While adoption is an option for heterosexual couples, couples of the same sex, or even individuals who want to fulfill their desire to be parents but cannot do so, it is not always what they prefer if they want to have their genetic imprint on the child. Adoption has become the less popular alternative because oftentimes, it involves bringing into the family fold a child totally unrelated to either of the intended parents. In addition, the comprehensive regulations governing domestic and international adoption has prompted more couples to opt for the less tedious and unregulated practice of surrogacy to achieve their reproductive goals.

Revised Rules of Civil Procedure: A Review Precis / Alvin Claridades
Philippines : Central Book Supply, Inc., 2021
1158p.
9786210212600
$ 100.00 / HB

This book is a quick sequel to the author’s 2019 book: “Review Outline in Civil Procedure.”

It became imperative to update said outline – new as it is – as soon as the High Tribunal approved A.M. No. 19 - 10 - 20 - SC entitled: “2019 Proposed Amendments to the 1997 Rules of Civil Procedure” and pegged its effectivity date on May 1, 2020.

As discussed in the introductory part of this work, the 2019 Amended Rules cover amendments, deletions, and new provisions in Rules 6 to 35 of the Rules of Court while the rest of its provisions has been retained, except that some of them should now be read in conjunction with the pertinent amendments and new provisions.

$ 75.00 / HB

Since then, leading cases on Alternative Dispute Resolution have been enunciated by the Supreme Court defining new principles, clarifying previously debated theories, and strengthening existing doctrines of which readers have to be apprised. A discussion on the Katarungang Pambarangay, the system of mediation and arbitration at the grassroots level ordained under the Local Government Code of 1991, will provide readers with an immediately accessible reference material on said related subject. A revision of this book is, therefore, timely and necessary.

"The promulgation by the Supreme Court of A.M. No. 19 - 10 - 20 - SC on October 15, 2019, amending Rules 6 to 35 of the 1997 Rules of Civil Procedure, which becomes effective on May 1, 2020, necessitates the updating and revision of this work. In so doing, new legislations and Supreme Court circulars affecting it were also taken into consideration. The citations are enriched with more than a thousand cases from the last two decades to aid the reader for further research and to ensure that relevant rules and procedural principles cited are still good.

The Revised Rules on Small Claims Case, which increased the amount involved, in tandem with the Revised Rules on Summary Procedure as well as the procedure in court - annexed mediation and judicial dispute resolution are also incorporated in this book. "

Conflict of laws or private international law is used to signify that the laws of different countries (or other jurisdictions) on the subject-matter to be decided, are in opposition to each other; or that certain laws of the same country are contradictory. When this happens to be the case, it becomes necessary to decide which law is to be obeyed. (Black's Law Dictionary)

The discussion of this book on partnership is sequenced in such a way that all the incidents of the partnership business starting from incorporation, management of the business, liabilities of the partners are discussed without necessarily paying attention to the arrangement of the Civil Code provisions. Rather, the correlation of each provision in relation to the stages of the partnership business was the main consideration in the arrangement of the provisions. This (arrangement) was of course made without sacrificing the discussion on each particular provision; paying attention to the nuances of each and how it ultimately affects the partnership business.

The discussion of this book on the topic of agency (on the other hand) focuses on the life of the agency beginning from its creation, the obligations of the agent and the principal up until the termination of the contract. The discussion of the Civil Code provisions also focused on the correlation of each to the topics to which each chapter has been designated.

Finally, the discussion on the topic of trust focuses on the kinds of trust (express or implied). Each provision is tackled in relation to the kind of trust relation that is present.

interviews; and messages and letters that he wrote in the whole year of 2019, when the peoples in the Philippines and abroad rose up to resist imperialism and all reaction on a scale and with intensity not seen before in decades. With the purpose of clarifying the issues, he wrote and made analysis in his various capacities as the Founding Chairman of the Communist Party of the Philippines (CPP), Chief Political Consultant of the National Democratic Front of the Philippines (NDFP) and Chairperson of the International League of People's Struggle (ILPS).

Given the globalization of many organizational processes, many leadership practices in the Philippines resemble those in other countries.

And while it is true that leaders worldwide similarly experience the complexity of organizations and societies, their particular context and culture shape their day-to-day interactions and responses to challenges. To resonate therefore among our leaders, this book showcases researches and stories on Filipino leadership. It is interesting to see how leadership acquires a distinct flavor in a high power distance, highly collectivist, developing country.

The book captures local knowledge and translates these into practical and useful applications relevant to the practice of leadership in various settings and sectors in the Philippines. Its findings are enriched by experiences of leaders thereby connecting the science to actual stories of leadership.

Within 50 years of missionary life, Angel crosses cultures to understand better Paulo Freire's methodology through real-life applications, traversing Europe to Asia and Latin America, from Vatican to Quezon City, wholeheartedly spreading the Claretian Spirit among humanity, whilst experiencing the people's poverty and hardships. Author Maria Frencie Carreon pens how Claretian missionary Angel Calvo breathed through harsh spaces in a period of Martial Law, in times of fear and trauma of domestic terrorists abducting religious leaders, in years of heart-gripping homelessness of the urban poor, in agonizing months of trafficked young women and children, and in sleepless nights for wandering street children. In such soul-clinching experiences, when one finds breathing moments of life - whether his or others'. he finds the essence of God's mission for him.

What Brother Karl Gaspar has written in this book is Philippine Church history critically and beautifully woven into the socio-political past of this country. Though written by someone who serves the Church, this work was never meant to aggrandize the institution. In fact, it is upon the Church's shortcomings and previous faults that Brother Karl anchors his call for the church to reflect on the present issues and concerns confronting the Indigenous Peoples and how such concerns can be integrated into the Church's contemporary mission. – Dr. Juvanni A. This book of DR. JOSE MARIO BAUTISTA MAXIMIANO will make us understand that the history of the Filipino Church is not just the story of Padre Damasos and Padre Salvis, but a precious story of numerous great leaders like Bishop Domingo de Salazar, OP, who exposed the abuses committed by his fellow Spaniards. It is a story of many other leaders like Fathers Pelaez, Gomez, Burgos and Zamora who championed equality and fairness. We recall that the Filipinos have manifested himagsikan through their Christian faith. The Spanish missionaries taught us to chant the Pasi3n text (Gaspar Aquino de Bel3n, 1704) about our suffering Messiah during the Holy Week, which somehow inspired our heroes, like the Gomburza, Rizal, and Bonifacio, to offer their lives for the sake of Inang Bayan. In this sense, religion has inspired people like Hermano Puli and numerous believers who gathered during the peaceful EDSA

Revolution in 1986 to fight for their rights. So how can we not celebrate 500 years of Christianity, a milestone in Philippine history, when Christianity has become a significant part of our personal and national experiences? Yes, we are the People of God humble enough to admit the great need to purify ourselves (semper purificanda) and learn the hard lessons from the past. But we are also the People of God who should not be deprived of celebrating our triumphs and the gift of faith we have received.
