Streetware discovers dialogues between tangible and intangible elements that compose the dynamic and diverse network of streets of George Town (Pearl of Orient). The shophouse and the block; the block and the neighbourhood; create the main set of relationships that define the street's character.

James Power was Principal, St. Patrick's School, Tawau January 1957-December 1965

The impact of quality education in English provided by the Christian churches throughout Sabah has yet to be fully documented. It is also largely an untold story. An entire generation of Sabahans was educated and equipped to face the challenges of a globalised world and for leadership roles in government, education and private enterprise. In sharing with us about his days in Tawau as the principal of St Patrick's School, James Power has placed on record the principles and values that guided his life and career. There are lessons here for all, especially those entrusted with the education of younger generations.
