This book records the precious moments of a chronograph solo-traveller from Keelung, Taiwan of the first meeting with his local friends in Penang, Malaysia. They began the journey together with diverse perspectives of “Local” + “Foreign” and marked the journey with a compilation of their photography works.

The invention of a panoramic function for a new generation of digital cameras has transformed photography in novel ways. Tan Yeow Wooi’s latest collection of images makes innovative and experimental use of this way of shooting, calling it an ‘anti-photography method’.

Panicrama offers a glimpse into an exciting way of representing the city and its (dis)contents.
