Harmonious Monism: A Philosophical Logic of Explanation for Ontological Issues in Supernaturalism in African Thought / Chris O. Ijomah
Jochrisam Publishers, Nigeria 2014
192p.

This book is a reaction against young Levy Bruhl's position that the world's (African) thought is pre- logical. Systematically therefore it exposes first the influence of positivism and two valued Logic on Bruhl which made him to be anti-spiritualism and second interpreted African thought from two- valued logic point of view. This wrong interpretational tool resulted to his "onslaught on African thought" which is the subject of the book's reaction. This book 's position is that every interpretation stems from a particular logic and this logic needs to evolve from the same ontological context with the phenomenon that is to be interpreted. The implication of this is that, there is a bio conditional structural relationship between every logic and its cultural ontology.

Njikoka Amaka: Further Discussions on the Philosophy of Integrative Humanism (A Contribution to African and Intercultural Philosophies) presents philosophy from the view point of African thought system and logic. It presents African philosophy not as a reactionary to another brand of philosophy as is popularly the case among writers of African philosophy but as an unspoken, unstated rival of the positions of other philosophical traditions, with great emphasis on the importance of intercultural philosophizing.

Have you ever doubted Greek origin of Western Philosophy or wondered about the irony that Greek government persecuted Socrates and Plato for corrupting the youth? This volume shows that African priest-scholars of the Egyptian Mystery System originated philosophy; that Thales, Pythagoras, Plato, Aristotle lived in Africa and studied under these priests. Some Greek historians: Plutarch, Diogenes Laertius, Herodotus, Plato, Aristotle; and modern writers: William Stace, Alfred Benn, James Breasted, etc. testify to Greeks' studentship in Egypt. Citing Egyptian texts, the author reveals that the doctrines of Greek philosophers have their prototypes in earlier Egyptian philosophy. However, in their determination to maintain racial and intellectual superiority over Africans, Western historians, since the 18th century, subverted history by attributing the origin of philosophy to the Greeks. The author calls for the restoration of 'truth' to the history of the 'king' of disciplines---Philosophy.

Although David Hume (1711-1776) is commonly known for his philosophical scepticism, and empiricist theory of knowledge, he also made many important contributions to moral philosophy. Hume's ethical thought grapples with questions about the relationship between morality and reason, the role of human emotion in thought and action, the nature of moral evaluation, human sociability, and what it means to live a virtuous life.

The 'subconscious' in humans has always been a subject inviting speculation. The subconscious expresses itself in a dream, but the dreamer has no control over it. Hence the study of dreams has become interesting and more so thought-provoking.

There have been various studies, including the clinical aspects of the phenomenon of dreams. The general consensus of the studies is that most dreams are in the form of narrations rearranged from memories of actual experiences and they are interrupted by frequent shifts of scenes and images.

The basic question that poses in ancient mythologies all the world over is the creation of the universe and together with it, the speculation about man's afterlife, he being 'the best creation'. Ideas about the creation of the world have varied in mythologies, including those of the tribal ones. The tribal accounts of creation, despite taking the sap from the bigger mythologies, display unparalleled freshness.

The myths of creation indicate, the coming from Eternity, and the myths of the afterlife going to Eternity, seen as the common tie between the two.

At a time when humanity lacks vision to forge a different development pathway, here comes a collection of literary narratives that draw us to the philosophies of restraint that shape the wisdom traditions of Pasifika. This series is timely. The authors, in highlighting their respective traditions of ethics, also question the kind of societies that are being fashioned in Pasifika, shaped by violence of binaries of Western philosophical traditions, and for what purpose.
