[The book is divided into sub-themes with significant policy implication – micro – credit policies, water resources farm and non – farm employment, and institutions and governance. It calls for a reversal in the thinking on the planning process that is creation of institutions ahead of sectoral planning and balancing the sectoral growth priorities to meet social and regional requirements.]

Managing Common Property in an Age of Globalisation / edited by Godfrey Chikowore et al
Harare, Zimbabwe : Weaver Press, 2002
218p,; 210 x 145 mm.
ISBN 1779220103
$ 19.95

This is an account of the challenges posed by globalisation on the management of common property resources in Zimbabwe, a developing country whose experiences are relevant to other countries in the southern African region and beyond. The book documents Zimbabwean experiences of the management of common property resources against a backdrop of inequitable access to resources, increasing poverty (which tends to impact negatively on the environment), the challenge of democratisation and good governance, and supra-national efforts to acquire a foothold on the 'global resources' found within Zimbabwe. The book explores these challenges: Section 1 provides a detailed description of attempts at local participation in such resources as wildlife (large mammals), fisheries, water, minerals, forestry and land. Section 2 describes issues around the management of transboundary natural resources. Section 3 frames the local and regional experiences by describing the wider international issues within which common property resources are managed.

The Water Harvester / Mary Witoshynsky

Harare, Zimbabwe : Weaver Press, 2000
60p.; 250 x 185 mm.
ISBN 0797421238
$ 15.00

In The Water Harvester, Mr Phiri relates the challenges that inspired him to combine traditional agricultural wisdom with the scientific land-management schemes mandated by government. In so doing, at times under great duress, he achieved startlingly better returns. His lifelong dedication to soil nutrition and water conservation generated an innovative land husbandry regimen well regarded by agroecologists. These experts are not alone in grasping the significance of Mr Phiri's methods as a basis for coaxing barren ground to yield abundant harvests of grain, vegetables, fruit -- and water.

Rural Livelihoods, Resources and Coping with Crisis in Indonesia: A Comparative Study / Milan J Titus & Paul P M Burgers
Amsterdam : Amsterdam University Press, 2008
307p,; 24cm
ISBN-13: 9789812309013
$ 59.90

Most literature on the economic crisis in Indonesia has focused on the negative macro-economic impacts during the "crisis-years" (1997-1999). With a longitudinal research perspective, this comparative study analyses a wide variety of responses to the crisis among communities and households. They often contradict the pessimistic assumptions of communities'/households capacities to cope with crisis conditions. Covering different areas of Indonesia, variations in resource use practices and resource use regulations define the way rural households can cope with crisis conditions and adapt to new circumstances. The studies show that coping and adaptive behaviour increasingly depends on the ways people are able to tap into supra local networks, even beyond national boundaries. However, without sound interventions, the long term perspective is one where sustainable resource use systems slowly deteriorate as local resource use regulations are overruled by processes of internationalization. The book thus may contribute to the development of more effective policies for increasing resilience among rural communities to withstand crisis conditions.

Credit and Debt in Indonesia, 860-1930: From Peonage to Pawnshop, from Kongsis to Cooperative / David Henley & Peter Boomgaard (Eds.)
Singapore: ISEAS, 2009
208p
ISBN-13: 9789812308467 (HB)
$ 54.90

The topics range from the inscriptions of ninth-century Java to the first global financial crisis in 1930, and from Islamic laws against the charging of interest to the role of Chinese temples and Dutch church charities as credit providers. Attention is paid to parallels and contrasts more than recent developments, including the Asian financial crisis of 1997 and Indonesia's rise to fame as a pioneer of the current global microfinance revolution.

Rural Investment Climate in Indonesia / Neil McCulloch (Ed)
Singapore: ISEAS, 2009
364p
ISBN-13: 9789832308535 (PB)
$ 49.90

This book provides a comprehensive analysis of the constraints facing the development of rural non-farm enterprises in Indonesia. Recent years have seen a substantial effort by the Indonesian government to improve the investment climate. To date, much of this effort has focused on the constraints faced by businesses at the national level. However, if Indonesia is to be successful in creating jobs and reducing poverty across the archipelago, this will require improving the investment climate for the 15.7 million micro and small enterprises that employ more than half of all the non-farm workers in the country.

Trade Reform in Southern Africa / Peter Draper & Philip Alves
Johannesburg, South Africa : Jacana Media, 2009
184p.; 235 x 155 mm.
ISBN 9781920196202
$ 23.13

The book's analysis of South Africa's contemporary debates over whether or not the country can or should attempt to become a 'stronger' developmental state are of particular interest, as the ruling African National Congress remains committed to such a path, however ill defined. The book also provides a fascinating overview of South Africa's trade policy reform experience of the late 1990s, identifying the drivers of the process, the reforms undertaken and the consequent real economy impacts. It argues strongly in favour of a return to focusing on greater unilateral trade policy reform in future, especially given the impotence of trade negotiations. Whether or not this will come about and what it might portend for the region remains extremely difficult to determine. The region requires the leadership of a South African economy committed to openness and increased trade. But can South Africa fulfil such a role over the next five years?

The Credit Crunch- Housing bubbles globalisation and worldwide economic crisis. South African edition / Graham Turner

$ 20.63

"South Africa has been hit hard by the global credit crisis. For more than four years, South Africa boomed, like so many other emerging economies. And then suddenly without warning, capital markets froze, and South Africa tumbled into recession. The waves of foreign capital flowing into the country quickly evaporated, sending share prices into freefall and leaving a serious question mark over the future of capitalism in South Africa.

A political backlash now looms. A ticking bomb of endemic unemployment, extreme poverty and rising crime are the legacy of the economic policy pursued by the African National Congress since 1994. The rapid increase in borrowing of recent years, financing conspicuous even ostentatious consumption among whites and middle-income blacks, has brought the economy to its knees....

Zumanomics - Which Way to Shared Prosperity in South Africa? / Raymond Parsons

Johannesburg, South Africa : Jacana Media, 2009

208p.; 235 x 155 mm.

ISBN 9781770096479

$ 22.50

South Africa stands at an historical political and economic crossroad in 2009. Globally the widespread world recession has serious consequences for the slowing South African economy – and 2009 is seen as a tough year for business and consumers. Politically it seems that, while the ANC-Cosatu-SACP Alliance is likely to win the 2009 elections, important changes in economic direction are possible for South Africa. What does a Zuma Presidency hold in store for the economy and business prospects? What kind of policies will – and should – a Zuma government follow in the wake of the ANC Polokwane Conference in December 2007? How far to the 'left' will a Zuma government swing and what are the economic and business constraints on their options?

The Development Decade?-Economic and social change in South Africa, 1994-2004 / Edited by Vishnu Padayachee

Cape Town, South Africa : HSRC Press, 2006

484p.; 240 x 168 mm.

$ 33.75

Covering a breadth of issues, the international development specialists who have contributed to this volume significantly deepen our understanding of the key socio-economic issues in the first decade of South Africa's democratic Governance. Locating the South African challenges within a broader international perspective, the issues covered include all the major economic growth challenges confronting South Africa - employment, industrial policy, urban governance, the informal economy - and the social challenges of poverty, inequality, HIV/AIDS and health policy. The key development debates of the post-apartheid era are outlined and the success or otherwise of a decade of reform and experimentation is considered.

Africa Continent of Economic Opportunity / David Fick

Based on correspondence with people in Africa and around the world who are interested in the sustainable development of Africa, this publication showcases the business opportunities that can be found in Africa, and also the problems people encounter in realising them. Most titles deal with macroeconomics when actually it is the small and medium-sized enterprises of the world that create the majority of jobs. This title presents case studies of individual small, medium and large enterprises and community projects creating jobs in Africa.

The book tells the story of this significant NGO that was active during the critical period when South Africa was transforming itself into a democratic nation. Starting work in the early 1990s, it pioneered participatory methods, and was virtually the only organization at that time running operational projects with these communities. A companion online publication traces the LDU's conception and birth, discusses its philosophy and strategy

The business of sustainable development in Africa- Human rights, partnership, alternative business models / Edited by Ralph Hamann, Stu Woolman, Courtenay Sprague

A book focused on the vital subject of corporate citizenship and partnerships in Africa. Written by a diverse group of scholars and practitioners, the book achieves an excellent balance of theory and practice, and offers insightful African perspectives within a broader global context. The authors have drawn valuable lessons from both large companies and social enterprises, and from internal management challenges and more systemic collaborative efforts. This deserves a prominent place on the bookshelf of anyone who is interested in business, in international development, or in Africa

From our side is a collaborative effort of younger scholars in southern Africa and the Netherlands who are interested in the relationship between development and ethics, from a Christian point of view. The 17 chapters that make up the book have been produced through a unique set of partnerships, in which the authors have intentionally worked with practitioners who are working in the development arena. The essays were also shared in a number of settings with the authors, so that they have also benefited from this creative partnership process, and these partnerships have embraced people in both the South and the North, signalling a desire for a global dialogue led by Africa on matters which have a strong impact upon the continent.

Pathways from Poverty: The Process of Graduation in Rural Bangladesh / Alastair Orr, Barbara Adolph et al
