This book recounts the tale of Georg Mayer and Simon Brod, two legendary Jewish businessmen who lived and worked in Istanbul in the first half of the twentieth century, in a world that has long since vanished in all but memory. Both men were Ashkenazi Jews operating within a largely Sephardic cultural sphere. Mayer was the founder of one of several pioneers in bringing the department store to Istanbul (and, by extension, to Turkey). For his part, Brod was one of the leading 'Sultanhamam' textile merchants, but apart from this he is remembered among the Jewish population as the person who, during the Second World War, devoted his own energies and resources to assisting Jewish refugees fleeing Nazi Europe for Palestine. By tracking down a great number of otherwise overlooked written and oral sources the author has succeeded not only in rescuing these men's stories from oblivion, but in the process has also brought to life for us both the central characters and the era in which they lived.

This work is comprised mainly of reports prepared by American diplomats stationed in Turkey during the 1960s and 1970s, decades in which the country underwent a series of profound and wrenching political crises. The reports contained in this work give a unique perspective on the state of affairs in Turkey during that period, as viewed through the eyes of American diplomats. Students movements, an ultimatum to the government by the Turkish General Staff on March 12, 1971, Kurdish issues and the status of the country's religious and ethnic minorities are just a few of the subjects covered.

While writing a book on the Hukbalahap, a wartime anti-Japanese resistance movement in the Philippines, William "Bill" Pomeroy met and fell in love with Celia Mariano, one of its most active women members. They were wedded twice –by a justice of the peace and by the movement to which they belonged.

The Forest tells the story of the two years 1950-1952-Bill and Celia spent in the mountains with the Huks. But more than a vivid account of the physical hardship of guerrilla life, the book is a moving story of their love and their courage in the fight for freedom.

Considered a classic with various English editions and translations into several languages, The Forest ends with Bill and Celia's capture. In its sequel, Bilanggo: Life as a Political Prisoner in the Philippines, 1952-1962. Pomeroy writes with the same passion and heart, whether about his commitment to the liberation struggle or about his love for his wife and comrade.

Looking Back 2: Dirty Dancing / Ambeth R. Ocampo

Pasig City: Anvil Publishing, Inc., 2010

v. ; 105p. ; 18cm.

To the people who are blind to the lessons of the past, Ambeth R. Ocampo is the one-eyed king. Sure, he has his critics, but all the time, he is entertaining, fresh and bracing, not stodgy or stultifying like some academics with their voluminous footnotes and explanations. He always makes historical figures come alive, blemishes and all, and with his curious eye, makes our heroes very human and not the mythic figures that we want to make of them. Ambeth makes history enjoyable reading while at the same time makes it anchor us to the past and therefore, and hopefully, prepares us for the future.

Oyanguren: Forgotten Founder of Davao / Aida Rivera-Ford

Philippines: Mindanao Foundation for Culture and the Arts, Inc., 2010

105p. ; 23cm.

1. Philippine history (English)

$ 12.00

In 1948, Don Jose Oyanguren vanquished the forces of the fierce Datu Bago. He established the small settlement that would grow into the city of Davao. In doing so, he secured for Spain and for Christianity a firm foothold in Eastern Mindanao. Today, Davaoenos only associate his name with the old name of the city's main thoroughfare; the memory of the man and what he accomplished is nearly forgotten.

This book aims to restore Don Jose Oyanguren in his proper place in Davao history. Basque though he may be, he deserves more than a fleeting remembrance in the city of his founding. His story – one of adventure, hardship, and love – is one worth commemorating.

Siglo is a Spanish word that literally translates to the Filipino term dantaon or sandaang taon. The term also denotes a significant period of time. Overall, the book title encapsulates the hundred years of the Philippine General Hospital's continuing commitment of providing quality health care to the Filipino people. Just like any other institution, the PGH has had its fair share of triumphs and struggles throughout its long and rich history. What began as Dean C. Worcester's "crazy dream" in the early 1900s somewhat came close to realization when colonial government funds were allocated in 1907, that dream was indeed no more. From then on, the PGH carved its own niche under the sun – and the rest, as they usually say, is history.

Warlords and Muslims in Chinese Central Asia: A Political history of Republican Sinkiang 1911-1949 / Andrew D. W. Forbes

Reprint.
Bangkok: White Lotus Co. Ltd., 2010
xx. 376p. ; 21cm.
ISBN-13: 9789744801661
$ 32.00

Warlords and Muslims in Chinese Central Asia: A Political history of Republican Sinkiang 1911-1949 provides a detailed study of Sinkiang (Xinjiang) – China’s largest province, and a great strategic importance on the Russian border during the Warlord and Kuomintang Eras. It is written to present an analysis of the internal warlord and Islamic politics of Sinkiang, as well as to take account of ‘great power’ interests in this region, during a period in which it was essentially a Han Chinese colony in the heart of Central Asia. The study is of relevance not only to the history of twentieth century China, but also to the politics of Islamic reassertion in Central Asia; to the development of the Soviet Union as an imperial power in the Tsarist Russian mould; to an understanding of the cultural and political aspirations of China’s national minorities; and should serve – in a world preoccupied with Western colonialism and imperialism – as a reminder that colonialism and imperialism were not, and are not, an exclusively European preserve.

The Sumatra Railroad: Final Destination Pakan Baroe, 1943-1945 / Henk Hovinga

391p.
978-90-6718-340-6
$ 57.00

This is the gripping historical tragedy of the 220 km railroad that bored its way through the hot, humid Sumatran jungle during World War II. The railway was commissioned by Japan and built with the blood and tears of Allied prisoners of war and press-ganged Javanese romushas. Henk Hovinga interviewed nearly one hundred former railroad workers and did painstaking archival research. The result is a moving book, richly illustrated with numerous authentic drawings of life in the internment camps, charts and photographs. The original Dutch version of The Sumatra Railroad has become the standard work on the crime of the Japanese railroad construction in Indonesia. Unfortunately this indescribable human catastrophe has always been overshadowed by the drama of the notorious Birma Railroad. This work is first and foremost a posthumous tribute to the thousands of slave workers who lost their lives for the Pakan Baroe Railroad. At the same time, it is a homage to the survivors, for whom the war traumas would never end.
