Builder of Bridges: The Rudy Cuenca Story / Jose Dalisay Jr. & Antonette Reyes Pasig City: Anvil Publishing INC., 2010
vii. 188p. ; 23cm.
ISBN-13: 9789712724619
$ 19.50

Though he never finishes college, he built the San Juanico Bridge and the North and South Expressways, undertook the massive Manila Bay reclamation project, initiated the export of Philipino labor to the Middle East, and ran the Sheraton, the Pines Hotel, and the Taal Vista Lodge, among many other enterprises. He built the Construction Development Corporation of the Philippnes (CDCP) into the country's largest construction conglomerate of its time. And yet many Philipinos remember him only today as a "Marcos crony," a tag he will not deny. At his heart, however, Rodolfo "Rudy" Cuenca was a builder of bridges – and a witness to some of the most interesting and significant events of 20th century Philippines.

Primed and Purposeful: Armed Groups and Human Security Efforts in the Philippines / Soliman M. Santos, Jr. & Paz Verdades M. Santos
Quezon City: South-South Network for Non-State Armed Group Engagement & Geneva, Switzerland: Small Arm Survey, 2010
xxxi. 440p.; 21cm.
ISBN-13: 9782940415298
$ 30.00

Primed and Purposeful: Armed Groups and Human Security Efforts in the Philippines provides the political and historical detail necessary to understand the motivations and probable outcomes of conflicts, and to contemplate the demobilization and reintegration of combatants into civilian life. Light is also shed on the use of small arms – the weapons of choice for armed groups – whose availability is maintained through leakage from government arsenals, porous borders, a thriving domestic craft industry, and a lax regulatory regime.

The Jewish Diasporascape in the Straits: An Ethnographic Study of Jewish Businesses
Across Borders / Theo Kamsma

Amsterdam, Netherlands: Theo Kamsma, 2010

xii. 267p. ; 24cm.

ISBN-13: 9789053352601

$ 45.00

The Straits is the waterway region that divides Indonesia, Singapore and Malaysia, with adjacent port cities like the Straits Settlements, Penang, Melaka and Singapore and on the Indonesian side, Jakarta and Surabaya. Jewish presence in this region is highly contested. By means of three in-depth business case studies; the diamond trade, the fashion business and the speciality coffee retail business, it is investigated how Jewish entrepreneurs build and operate their networks. Despite, or maybe because of the many popular ideas concerning Jews and their businesses, their networks have remained understudied. With the introduction of the concept of a Jewish Diasporascape, this study avoids the obvious dangerous pitfall of reductionism studying Jewish networks. It calls for allowing complexities, and the appliance of a multi-disciplinary and critical realist approach. At the same time, it provides a thorough insight into the routes and anchorages of a small Diaspora community.

Indochina / Albert Sarraut

Bangkok: White Lotus Co., Ltd., 2010

Vii. 176p. ; 30cm.

ISBN-13: 9789744801609

$ 45.00

Indochina is a reprint of the 1930 edition, with photographs mostly from the turn of the century. The French colonizers used the term Indochine to denote their political expansion of five bordering countries, namely, Laos; Cambodia; Cochinchina, with its capital at Saigon; Annam, with its capital at Hue, and Tonkin, with its capital at Hanoi.

The introductory text, which was originally in French and has now been translated into English, was conceived bearing in mind the potential visitor and tourist to the region. Tourism was promoted to generate revenue and what better way was there to accomplish this than by depicting beautiful pictures of the landscape and its exotic people.

The ninety-six originally illustrations are supplemented by ninety-six postcards, dating back to the early 1900s also known as the golden age of postcards. They portray the indigenous people, architecture, landscapes and other characteristics of the five countries that comprised Indochina.

Letters from Malaysia: The Seventies / Ted Miles
Bentong, Pahang: Ted Miles, 2010
147p. ; 22cm.
$ 15.00

The first in this series of books was Letters from Malaya 1951-56, followed by Letters from Malaya 1957-62, the Letters from Malaysia 1963-69, chronicling the experiences and adventures of Ted Miles when he was teaching in Methodist schools, all in letters to his brother, Charles, in the United States. Now comes Letters from Malaysia – The Seventies, about his experiences – first as teacher, then as Principal – in Taylor's College. He calls those first ten years a "decade of Change", and these letters will show why.

The Future of the Niger Delta: The Search for a Relevant Narrative / Abi Alabo Derefaka
& Atei Mark Okorobia (Edited)
History Concourse 2007
Rivers State, Nigeria: Onyoma Research Publications, 2009
xxviii. 592p. ; 22cm.
ISBN-13: 9789788195092
$ 50.00

The Niger Delta has always been an economically and socio-politically active region. It has always been a region awash with the movement of peoples, ideas, and goods over time. The contributors, who range from historians, through artists, sociologists, and economists, to natural scientists, are agreed that this situation will continue in the future even as the nature and content changes. Many of the contributors focus on the theme of sustainable development in the region through time, and others on culture and heritage management, as well as globalization and the Niger Delta. They conclude that the future of the Niger Delta will be determined by its past and present.

The current grave image of the Niger Delta is cause for concern, but not of despondency. Given the quality and variety of the contributors, these narratives, analyses, and interpretations are relevant to the continuing search for solutions to the Niger Delta question.

The Izon of the Niger Delta / Ebiegberi Joe Alagoa, Tekena Notonye Tamuno & John Pepper Clark (Edited)
Rivers State, Nigeria: Onyoma Research Publications, 2009
xviii. 851p. ; 23cm.
ISBN-13: 9789788195108 (HB)
$ 200.00

This is a global history of the Izon, Ijo or Ijaw people from their homelands in the Niger Delta, through Nigeria, the West and the Central African coastlands, and in the African diaspora into Europe, the Americas and the Caribbean.

It is a preliminary study that raises questions and opens grounds for further enquiry. The issues of governance raised in it are urgently relevant for the stability of the Nigeria nation, and for African and other developing regions of the world.

From Desk to Throne: His Royal Majesty, Oba Samuel Oladapo Oyebade. Ologotun of Ogotun Ekiti

Lagos: The Calvary Love Publishers Limited, 2009
xvi. 218p. ; 21cm.
ISBN-10: 9780719458
$ 50.00

The importance of biographies as tools of historical construction cannot be overemphasized. The need to celebrate a living icon gave birth to this book – “From Desk to Throne”

While recognizing the potent force of economics and religion in the society, it would be a big mistake to downplay the role of the individual in history.

We need to know about our leaders if we are to solve the greatest problems affecting African societies, which is poor leadership many African countries have been experiencing since independence.

Vita Chieu's is a microcosm of the overseas Chinese betrayal by Red China and the Khmer Rouge. Through his eyes we see how the naive patriotism exhibited by the ethnic Chinese community in Cambodia was requited. Instead of becoming heroes, Vita Chieu and his comrades were abandoned by Red China and victimized by the Khmer Rouge. Through Chieu's account we get the inside story on China's role in Southeast Asian politics, and how the Khmer Rouge remained a force to be reckoned with, despite their crimes against humanity. Chieu was fortunate enough to escape with his life, and now tells his story so that the atrocities he witnesses will never be forgotten.

The collapse of the weaving industry in eighteenth-century Bengal has been the subject of considerable controversy. While it has been held that the decline was caused by a stagnant system of production, historians have also argued that the problem was a symptom of colonialism, and lay in the fundamental conflict of interests between British investment in the Indian textile industry and the 'home' manufacturing groups. The present volume contributes fresh evidence and arguments to this subject.
