Borderlands and African Integration / R. T. Akinyele

Lagos: Panaf Publishing Inc., 2008

vi. 142p. ; 21cm.

ISBN-13: 9789780873745

$ 15.00

The concept of regional integration signifies a de-emphasis on the barrier effects of international boundaries. This, in effect, implies that borderlands should be considered as corridors from one country to another rather than buffer zones between sovereign states. The policy implications of this notion constitute the highlights of this book.

The topics discussed by the contributors include capacity building for governance across Africa's International Boundaries, the Malian approach to border administration, the merit of cross-border languages, the rights of migrant settlers in host countries, the place of trans-border research in African Integration as well as the human resources challenges, especially from the point of view of personnel recruitment and engineering practices in the emergent Economic Community of West Africa (ECOWAS)

That They May Be One: Essays in Honour of Professor Anthony I. Asiwaju / Yomi Akinyeye (Edited)

Nigeria: African Regional Institute, 2008

xviii. 290p. ; 22cm.

ISBN-13: 9789780853389

$ 30.00

That They May Be One is a collection of essays to celebrate Professor Anthony Ijaola Asiwaju, whose entire life, including a long and sustained research career, has been dedicated to the singular cause of policy reconceptualization and conversion of Africa boundaries from inherited postures as barriers and precipitants of conflicts to new roles and functions as bridges and facilitators of peace and cooperation as well as regional integration and sustainable development. The essays, contributed by Nigerians and non-Nigerians drawn from diverse disciplinary backgrounds and operational bases in academics and the practical world of policy making and policy execution, not only illustrate the global spread of a truly multidisciplinary research engagement; they also point to relevance for experts and general readers that are interested in the all-important subject of such an inherently multi-dimensional nature and character.

Nigeria and the Foreign Language Question / Tunde Ajiboye (Edited)

Ibadan, Nigeria: Caltop Publications (Nigeria) Limited, 2005

228p. ; 21cm.

ISBN-10: 9783644262

$ 12.00

The need to have a book of readings on the state of foreign languages in Nigeria may sound only narrowly convincing until we have attempted to examine the whole question from the point of view of its history, its development and its implication for educational and cultural growth. It is this attempt that lays bare the wisdom behind the type of themes that a book of this type may attract. This is what the book has attempted to do. It is also from this book that we can hope to show the broad strokes that characterize Nigeria's foreign language profile.

This book is drawn from the experience and commitment of a good number of scholars from all over the country, the common bond being their sustained interest in the fate of foreign languages in this country.

Democracy, Governance and International Relations / Hassan A. Saliu

Ibadan, Nigeria: College Press and Publishers Limited, Lead City University, 2010

viii. 353p. ; 22cm.

ISBN-10: 9782194824

$ 50.00

The Book Democracy, Governance and International Relations is a collection of essays on the three main areas that appear in the title of the book. It essentially addresses the all-important issue of governance which many believe is the architect of the many challenges facing the nations of Africa. Either one talks about democracy or foreign policy, hardly will the dimension of governance not be raised. The book therefore believes that Africa will benefit from a courageous decision to appraise its governance system and makes the outcomes of such an appraisal the basis for re-directing public affairs in the continent. This call is even more urgent for Nigeria which prides herself as the leading nation in Africa. With many erupting issues of global significance occurring in Africa and given the manifest reluctance of the developed segment of the world to get more involved in Africa, along the lines desired by the continent, the burden is on Nigeria to show the lead by displaying all the best practices associated with democracy, governance and the conduct of external relations.

Patriotic Persuaders for Survival Voice (PPSV) – Book Series One
$ 10.00

This is an innovative patriotism culture popularization book for a sovereign true independent nation. It is for endangered survival destiny redress of over 140 million Nigerians on the brink of national catastrophe. The focus is on knowledge of independence, its power, freedom, rights, privileges and roles in world power game play. Nigerian people are perishing because of lack of understanding of the type of independence from the British colonial imperialists.

By divine inspiration, this book is aimed at truth revelation. It beams its searchlight on crucial and symbolic independence-related national issues as the principal source of successive leadership failure and the "nothing works right in Nigeria" (NOW-RIG) jinx.

Face of a Nation: Democracy in Nigeria, Foreign Relations and National Image / Zimako O. Zimako

Nigeria: Modern Approach, 2009

xxix. 295p. ; 22cm.

ISBN-13: 9789782953087

1. Democracy – Nigeria
2. Nigeria – Foreign relations
3. Nigeria – Politics and government

$ 50.00

The book which is featured into three parts, discusses three core features of modern governance: Democracy, Foreign Relations and National Image. It goes further to chronicle the abuse to which Democracy has been subjected in Nigeria. The book also recognizes the fact, that one element which has roundly challenged the creativity, innovativeness and determination of Nigerians to grow and develop as a nation is the gargantuan and very hostile pandemic called "Corruption".

Taming The Monarchs / Prince Tony Momoh

Lagos: Efua Media Associates Limited, 2008

vi. 64p. ; 18cm.

ISBN-10: 9782209619

$ 7.00

Taming The Monarchs is the short title of the paper presented at the NBA Conference in Abuja in late August, 2008. The presentation was a bold attempt to draw attention to what our courts are inadvertently imposing on the people of Nigeria that their title are above the laws of the land because of the immunity from arrest, prosecution and service of process which section 308 of the Constitution grants them. It is being argued here that the media which have a constitutional duty to monitor governance on behalf of the people of Nigeria must gird their loins and tackle the monster which some courts are imposing on the people that their office when they perform the functions of the office. It will take a lot of persuasion to make Nigerians accept that corruption or money laundering is a function of office of the protected persons – the president, the vice president, 36 governors and 36 deputy governors.
